COURTYARD- connecting the realms of out and in

'There's no peace like the peace of an inner courtyard on a sunny day.'
Yann Martel, Man Booker Prize-winner and author, Life of Pi.

Shree Mahajani

It may seem ironic to gain a quote by someone who's not Indian but it is a very apt description of all that a courtyard means to the Indian psyche.

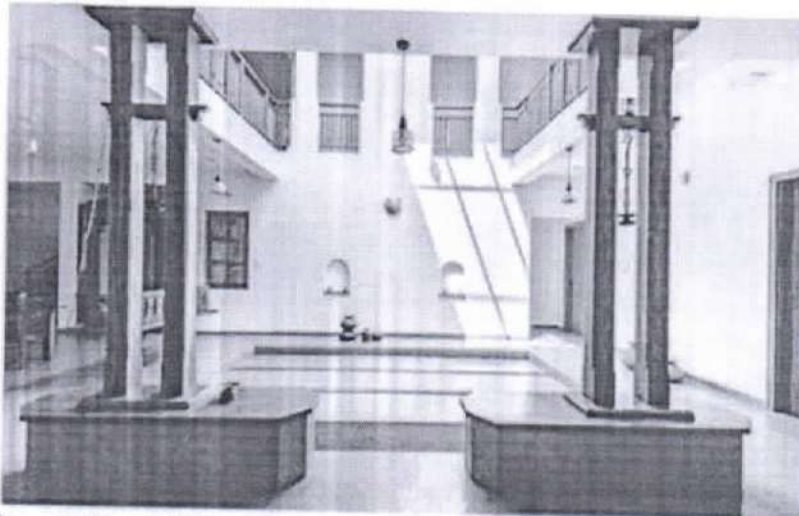

Architect Shree Mahajani has created this in a home at Satara.

Contemporary Modernist: Vertical Court House, Satara, Maharashtra

"Vertical Court" house is a story of a project which represents a contemporary vision of a family home. This is the old 'wada' coming alive again and fusing contemporary and modern architecture.

The house functions on two levels. The ground floor houses the public spaces- kitchen, dining, living room, a central double height courtyard and three bedrooms. On the first floor are the family room and two

Sunlight in a courtyard is the most profound way to pay respect to architecture and the natural elements that surround us.
